

Core narrative about the Danish Red Cross

The Red Cross is always there. We save lives every day, and we equip people with the tools they need to get through crises and disasters. We are the world's largest humanitarian organisation with about 12 million volunteers throughout the world. We are a movement for humanitarianism in the world, in the local community and where you live.

In Denmark, the Danish Red Cross is there for vulnerable children and adults of all ages. We forge communities and help vulnerable people in society lead a better life. In crisis situations we are part of the national disaster-response in Denmark.

Internationally, the Danish Red Cross is present in conflicts and emergencies. We help people on both sides of a conflict and in the remotest corners of the world, regardless of their nationality, religion or political views.

Thousands of people in Denmark support the Danish Red Cross every year by donating money to the work we do. The support is paramount to our work in Denmark and in the crisis areas of the world.

By supporting the Danish Red Cross, you are an important part of getting the help to those who need it the most. With your support, the Red Cross can continue to be there.
